With the design of the villa based on clear lines, cubic and functional, the Swiss architect Massimo di Caudo seeks to break with the traditional housing developments typical of the Spanish coast. A microclimate is extended to each living space thanks to its design and distribution of interior spaces, which together with the thermal and acoustic insulation of the villa, creates a harmonious and comfortable environment, with special emphasis on sustainable and respectful housing with the environment. The villa, built on a plot of 874,80m², consists of 7 bedrooms, 4 of them with panoramic views to the Mediterranean Sea, 2 complete bathrooms, 2 toilets, fully equipped kitchen with appliances, living room with wine cooler and large windows overlooking the exterior. It also has, among other amenities, under floor heating (fan-coil system), air conditioning, lift with five stops, security door with access code, internal motion detectors with alarm and external security cameras, swimming pool with protective cover and heated, a small SPA with two showers, different terraces to various levels to achieve different environments, a large garden completely finished mechanized access doors, large garage with separate entrance, laundry room and a machine room.
